SIERRA NEVADA HIGH ROUTE

The Classic High Trans-Sierra Route

West to East

Wolverton, Sequoia Nat'l Park to Shepard Pass Trailhead, Owens Valley

General Description: This high elevation Trans-Sierra tour is one of the ranges' most spectacular passages. As the route weaves its way from Wolverton ski area in Kings Canyon National Park to Shepherd Pass trailhead, it treads over seven passes of 12,000 ft. or higher, each with a superb ski run off the "back" side. True to its name, once through the first pass the tour stays above tree line until the descent to Owens Valley Desert Floor near Independence, CA. Near the half way point at Triple Divide Peak we'll stop and sample the incredible bowls of Cloud and Deadman Canyons. Two miles up and over two miles across these giant glacial cirques are the skiers pot-of-gold at the end of the rainbow. A rolling tour through the Kern Plateau and descent down Shepard's Pass brings us down again to the tree line and the conclusion of the tour. We have skied the High Route many times and have organized this tour from West to East, we feel this is the best direction, are able to get on the snow within a few miles of the Wolverton trailhead, as opposed to hauling your skis 5,000 vertical feet up Shepard's Pass. The descents are excellent especially with the spring sun warming the eastern slopes for our mid-morning runs down the eastern sides of the passes. Join us for an adventure of a lifetime!

Location: Kings Canyon & Sequoia National Parks, California

Itinerary's: Our first day we meet 7:00 am at the Woodlake Airport in Woodlake, CA. (our return point via private air charter), just west of Three Rivers and the southern entrance to Sequoia National Park. We will do a pack check, avalanche safety discussion, and then carpool to the trailhead at Wolverton parking area in Sequoia National Park, approximately 45 miles / 1.5 hrs. From the trailhead we will ski to tour to a camp on the Tablelands, just pass the Pear Lake Hut. Day Two, Tablelands Over Horn Peak Pass around the top of Deadman Canyon. Day Three: Over Glacier Ridge to Cloud Canyon to Glacier
